IMPORTANT AND SUCCESSFUL RECONNOISSANCE

Anxiety Respecting Burnside's Army.

REPORTS FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 25.

A telegram from Gen. ROSECRANS, dated last night, says he made a reconnoisance in force along the enemy's lines yesterday afternoon and found him in force. The enemy did not resist the advance of our reconnoitering column, which returned to its quarters after having accomplished the object of the movement, which proved to be of considerable importance.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 25.

Telegrams up to 2 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, from Gen. ROSECRANS, give additional assurance that his position can be assailed only by regular siege.

The purpose of Gen. ROSECRANS seems to be to resume offensive operations as soon as the reinforcements, including Gen. BURNSIDE's troops now on the way, reach him.

The mass of the rebel infantry are in Chickamauga Creek valley.

A division of rebel cavalry advanced yesterday or the day before from Stevens' Gap threatening a Union regiment guarding one of our signal stations, whereupon the regiment in question retired from its isolated position in the extreme front before it could be attacked.

Gen. ROSECRANS expresses the earnest wish that Gen. BRAGG will venture a prompt attack upon him, but is of opinion that it will not be made.

All was quiet along his lines at 2 P. M. yesterday.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 25, 1863.

It appears now that all three of ROSECRANS' Grand Divisions were engaged in the battles in front of Chattanooga, two of which were driven back in considerable disorder.

Gen. ROSECRANS, in his dispatches, imputes the loss of the battle to disobedience of orders on the part of Gen. McCOOK, who failed to occupy an important position assigned him by ROSECRANS. Had he done as ordered, Gen. ROSECRANS' opinion is that the battle would have resulted in a splendid Union victory. By extending his forces too much, the enemy were enabled to penetrate Gen. ROSECRANS' lines.

Great anxiety is felt here in army circles for the safety of BURNSIDE. In order to reinforce ROSECRANS, his only safe course would be to cross the Tennessee River and move down between the river and mountains, or to penetrate to some of the gaps and move down behind the mountains. The opinion of military men seems to be, that if he attempts to move down this side of the river, he will run great risk of being cut off.

DETAILED ACCOUNTS OF THE BATTLES.

In the course of the 17th, already unmistakable signs indicated that the enemy had discovered the weak points of our position, and were massing their forces in front of our left centre and left, for the manifest purpose of crushing those parts of our lines, or getting between them and Chattanooga. A corresponding movement by the left flank was thence made by the whole army further down the West Chickamauga, so that on Friday morning our extreme left rested at Gordon's Mill, at the crossing of the Chickamauga by the Lafayette Pike, about 12 miles southwest of Chattanooga. On the morning of the 18th, (Friday,) a portion of the expected reinforcements, consisting of two brigades of the reserve corps, respectively commanded by Cols. McCOOK and MITCHELL, made their appearance near Chattanooga, and were immediately ordered to make a reconnoissance toward Ringgold, and develop the intentions of the enemy from that quarter.

They came upon the advance of LONGSTREET's corps, pushed it back for some distance, took a number of prisoners from it, and fully established the anticipated concentration of the enemy in front of our left. All day Friday the cavalry, covering our front, skirmished with different bodies of the enemy issuing from the various gaps of the Pigeon Mountains and advancing upon and again retiring from our line. No serious collision however, occurred. It was evident the rebel Generals meant to create a false impression as to the points of our line against which they proposed to strike a blow with concentrated power. But Gen. ROSECRANS was not deceived. The reports from the front all tended to confirm his previous impression that an onset in overwhelming numbers was contemplated upon our left flank, and that it had to be met by a still further shifting line toward Chattanooga.

Accordingly on Friday night the divisions of BRANNAN and BAIRD, formerly commanded by Gens. ROUSSEAU and REYNOLDS, of THOMAS' corps, together with JOHNSON'S, of McCOOK'S corps, moved from the centre to the left of CRITTENDEN'S corps. They were in their new positions at daybreak. The two other divisions of McCOOK'S corps, DAVIS' and SHERIDAN'S, were to move into the position abandoned by THOMAS' corps, but had not time to assume it fully before the commencement of the action on the next morning. On the morning of Saturday our line then appeared as follows: On the extreme left BRANNAN, next BAIRD and REYNOLDS, with JOHNSON in reserve in the centre, PALMER on the right of REYNOLDS, and VAN CLEVE on his left. The line, as already stated, was to be completed by DAVIS' and SHERIDAN'S divisions, faced a little east of south. The scene of all the movements on the 17th and 18th was McLamore's Cave, previously described as the valley formed by the Missionary and Pigeon Mountains. The valley is washed for its greater part by the West Chickamauga, and traversed by two roads, one leading from Rossville, and the other from Chattanooga direct to Lafayette. The two roads run about two miles apart, and west of the Chickamauga where the battle of Saturday was fought.

The section of the valley bordered by the two roads is almost a plain, covered with thick woods, which rendered the field unfavorable for the effective use of artillery. The line proper, as given above, rested nearly at the base of the Missionary Mountains, some distance in advance of its right. Gordon's Mills, the point of intersection of the road from Chattanooga to Lafayette, and the Chickamauga aforementioned, was still held on Saturday morning by WOOD's division of CRITTENDEN'S corps, supported by NEGLEY's of THOMAS'. Their position was a strong one; but at an angle with the line proper, appeared like a dangerous extension of the latter, and was proved such by subsequent events. It was meant to secure our right against turning manœuvres, but officers of good judgment entertained the belief that both greater compactness from closer contraction and perfect security of the right might have been obtained by posting the latter on the eastern abutments of Missionary Ridge. The brigades of McCOOK and MITCHELL of the reserve corps were ordered back to Rossville, on Friday afternoon, for the protection of our communication with Chattanooga, and hence were not to participate in the struggle of Saturday. The night had been frosty, and the troops not being permitted to kindle bivouac fires, the discomfort they experienced, together with the fatigue from marching and want of sleep, put them in a physical condition by no means as vigorous as it should have been for the severe work before them. Fortunately the sun rose clear, and, with its cheering rays, did much to revive the spirits of the army.

The early forenoon passed away without forewarning of the approaching conflict; but shortly before 11 o'clock the storm that had been brewing all the morning on the rebel side burst forth in the expected direction. At that time a long mass of rebel infantry was seen advancing upon BRENNAN's division on the extreme left. It first came upon the Second brigade, Col. CROXTON commanding, and soon forced it back despite its determined resistance. The two other brigades of the division at once came to its assistance, and succeeded in checking the progress of the rebels and driving them back; but their column being in turn strongly reinforced, they advanced again with wild yells. So powerful was this assault, that they pushed BRANNAN back to and beyond his position in the line, and thus uncovered the left of BAIRD's division. Making prompt use of their advantage, they changed their course to the left, and speedily enveloped SCRIBNER's and KING's brigades—the latter of Regulars. They were almost surrounded, but managed to disentangle themselves after fearful loss.

The crushing rebel masses next came upon JOHNSON's division, and rolled it upon REYNOLDS', which also became speedily involved in the desperate struggle. The stubborn resistance of these divisions, however, and the sweeping fire of some batteries posted under the personal supervision of Gen. ROSECRANS, arrested at last their sweeping advance.

The divisions of BRANNAN and BAIRD having been rallied, Gen. THOMAS ordered a general advance of the right, and soon the tide of battle was decidedly turned in our favor. With cheers our line advanced, halting only at times to shatter the enemy with musketry. Several times the latter's retreating line stopped and vainly tried to retain their gained ground; but steadily they were driven from position to position, and by 4 o'clock all the ground lost was nearly recovered. Several batteries belonging to Gens. BAIRD's and BRANNAN's divisions, whose horses had been killed and supports were swept away, were retaken, and several hundred prisoners captured. The enemy left all their dead and nearly all their wounded on the field. There were at least 500 of the former. The rebel troops engaging THOMAS belonged to BUCKNER's and LONGSTREET's commands.

At the time the struggle was turning in our favor on the left, BRAGG's army proper, consisting of the corps of POLK and HILL, (formerly HARDEN's,) moved to a most determined and well-executed attack upon PALMER's and VAN CLEVE's divisions in the centre. Its object was obviously to relieve the defeated rebel right. PALMER and VAN CLEVE soon found themselves overpowered and their divisions breaking. Their complete rout was imminent, when DAVIS' division came to their support on VAN CLEVE's right. The timely reinforcements at first had the effect of checking the enemy and restoring our line; but the rebel attack was speedily renewed with greater numbers, and the centre again compelled to yield. DAVIS was forced to the right and VAN CLEVE to the left, and the enemy advanced through the opening made in our line, threatening to take the centre and right by their flanks, as they had done on the left. At this critical juncture, SHERIDAN's division appeared, and was at once thrown upon the enemy. It stood its ground gallantly for a while, but becoming soon exposed to a destructive flank fire, was also compelled to fall back. Fortunately, the divisions of Gens. WOOD and NEGLEY, that had been easily withdrawn from Gordon's Mills when the rebel attack on the left threatened to be successful, now came to the rescue. After a brief contest, the rebels found themselves at last matched, and commenced giving away in their turn. REYNOLDS having also been sent to the assistance of the centre.

After the repulse of the rebel right an advance was ordered, and the original position regained about sunset.

About dark the enemy made another demonstration with a heavy artillery and musketry fire upon the centre, but eliciting a lively response, they soon abandoned this last effort of the day. Thus ended the battle of the 19th. It had been a defensive one on our part, and although we lost no ground, and probably less men and material than the enemy, its result could hardly be claimed as a triumph of Union arms. No substantial advantage had been won, and a large portion of the army was badly shattered. That the enemy, with his numerical superiority, would be able to offer again battle on the following day, could well be supposed. Gen. ROSECRANS anticipated a renewal of the struggle, and prepared for it.

During the night the disposition of our forces was changed. The line was made to rest along a cross-road running northeast and southwest, and connecting the Rossville and Lafayette Roads. By this disposition our extreme right was made to rest on Missionary Ridge. The new line was a mile shorter than that of the day before. The different divisions were disposed in this order: From right to left, one brigade of Negley's, Johnson's, Baird's, Palmer's, Reynold's, two brigades of Negley's, Wood's, Sheridan's and Davis'. Brannan's and Van Cleve's formed the reserve. The mounted brigades of Wilder and Minty covered the right flank.

Sunday morning broke upon the hostile armies as fair as that of the preceding day. Contrary to the universal expectation on our side, the enemy again allowed the early hours, so well suited to offensive manœuvres, to pass away undisturbed by the sounds of battle. The adaptation of their plan of attack to our new line, doubtless, necessitated this. About 9 o'clock a few shots were heard at various points of our front, but it was only a little before 10 that the report of whole volleys announced the resumption of the fight in good earnest. The firing that had begun upon our left, at once assumed the fiercest character. The enemy repeated the tactics of the previous day by throwing themselves first upon our extreme left, formed by Gen. BEATTY's brigade of NEGLEY's division. It stood the onset for some time, but finally retired.

Desiring to unite the two portions of Gen. NEGLEY's command, Gen. ROSECRANS ordered Gen. WOOD's division to take the position of the two brigades stationed further to the right. The rebels, perceiving the withdrawal of NEGLEY, and believing it to be a retreat in good earnest, quickly also moved upon the centre, and the action speedily became general. Finding themselves unable to make an impression on WOOD, the enemy, after the lapse of an hour or so, seemed to concentrate their main strength upon the centre, now again commanded by THOMAS.

During the night our troops had constructed along the line barriers of logs and fence-rails, and thus comparatively sheltered, they kept a continuous, murderous musketry fire upon the enemy. Our artillery was planted upon higher ground in the rear, and fired over the infantry. Destructive as our fire from small-arms and cannon was, it did not stay the advance of the rebels. At times they staggered, but only to rally and push again forward toward our line. With frantic yells, LONGSTREET's and HILL's corps both came rolling steadily on, in columns by battalions. Our centre, weakened to the extent of almost one-third, was not strong enough for success in this unequal contest. Closer and closer approached the shouting hostile masses, and at last forced BRANNAN's division to yield its position.

Meantime, as Gen. REYNOLDS was severely pressed, Gen. WOOD was ordered to march instantly by the left flank, pass Brennan, and go to his relief. DAVIS and SHERIDAN were to shift over the left, and thus close up the line. As the occasion was urgent, Gen. WOOD drew in his skirmishers with considerable haste, and the rebels for the second time, mistaking a withdrawal for a flight, pressed forward like a torrent, and poured musketry, canister and grape into the flank of the division, moving upon the double-quick. The men endeavored for a time to keep their files in order, but as the pitiless storm of lead and iron continued to be hurled against them, the regiments began to spread out like a fan wider and wider until finally they were torn to flinders. This was especially the case with the brigade commanded by Col. BUELL. PARKER's brigade alone passed on to its destination comparatively intact.

The battle now extended upon its most critical phase. The breaks, temporarily caused by the shiftings of divisions from one point of the line to another, were so promptly perceived and turned to advantage by the enemy, that they proved fatal, and cost the loss of the day. DAVIS' division, coming up to take WOOD's position on the extreme left, was taken with great suddenness and fury by the left flank, and pushed to the right in utter disorder. Simultaneously the weak remnants of VAN CLEVE's and PALMER's divisions, exposed by the withdrawal of DAVIS', were attacked with equal vehemence on the right, and forced back in great confusion. The rout of the left and the right was now complete, and even the exertions of Gen. ROSECRANS and his Staff, who, with drawn swords, attempted to restore order, were of no avail. Streams of demoralized, uncontrollable men, fleeing toward the rear, were all that remained of a large portion of the army.

After that fatal break, our line of battle was not again re formed during the day. The army was, in fact, cut in two, McCOOK, with DAVIS, SHERIDAN and WILDER, being thrown off to the right; CRITTENDEN, except one brigade of WOOD's, being broken in pieces, and THOMAS, with his indomitable corps, and JOHNSON's division of McCOOK's, remaining alone upon the left. THOMAS' divisions—NEGLEY's, BRANNAN's and BAIRD's—had been fearfully shaken and much scattered by the fight over the log works, and REYNOLDS' was the only one that retired in tolerable order. Retreat was now the only resort left, and the whole disorganized mass of our troops fell back over the road to Rossville. Crowds of stragglers, in mob-like disorder, made good speed toward Chattanooga, with the exception of SHERIDAN, DAVIS and WILDER, who, cut off from the centre, still straggled as best they could.

On the right the divisions of BAIRD, REYNOLDS, NEGLEY and BRANNAN, and HARKER's brigade of WOOD's division, alone retained cohesiveness, and took a position along the base of Missionary Mountains, where the Rossville road debouches from them, for another fight. The line was formed so that the left rested upon the Lafayette road, and the right at the gap represented an arc of a circle, and a southeast hill about its centre formed the key to the position. Between 2 and 3 o'clock the enemy appeared on the Lafayette road, and, moving by the left flank, soon formed for another attack.

At first they directed a heavy fire of musketry and artillery upon our position, as though meaning to dispirit its defenders before coming to an assault, but the 10,000 or 12,000 men that confronted them felt that the fate of the Army of the Cumberland, and, in a great measure, that of the Union, depended upon the repulse of the enemy, and when the rebel lines finally came repeatedly to the attack, they advanced but to recoil with severe loss. Our troops were formed in two lines upon the crest, and firing one after the other, they kept up an unbroken fusillade with telling effect. The enemy, consisting of POLK's corps, were not only repelled, but thrown into such disorder that TURCHIN's brigade and other portions of the line followed, and took several hundred prisoners. Toward sunset the enemy were driven back to the position they took when filing out of the Lafayette road, and abandoned the contest.

When THOMAS' division were most sorely pressed during the afternoon, and it looked at one time as though they would again have to succumb to superior numbers, they were gladdened and encouraged by the advent, on the right, of MITCHELL's and WHITAKER's brigades, of the reserve corps, under the command of Gen. GORDON GRANGER, himself. With the accession of strength, our ability to maintain our position was no longer doubted. Soon after Gen. GRANGER had reported to Gen. THOMAS, his two brigades were sent out on the road, under command of Gen. STEADMAN, to retake an ammunition train that had fallen into the hands of the enemy. They came upon a large rebel force, and after a severe conflict, drove them away.

While Gen. THOMAS was making his gallant fight, SHERIDAN and DAVIS had managed, after being much cut up, to work their way to the Rossville Road with the remnants of their divisions, and fallen back in the direction of Chattanooga. At night Gen. THOMAS fell back to Rossville, four miles from Chattanooga, after bringing away all the wounded, transportation, and other material within reach.

While the struggle of Saturday ended in a drawn battle, that of Sunday resulted in a disastrous defeat. The failure of the first day was partly due to the greater numerical strength of the enemy, and partly to the deficient formation of our line of battle. That of the second is justly ascribed to improper tactics on the battle-field, and above all to the absence of command. The inspiring example set and influence exercised by the Commander-in-Chief at Stone River were wanting—he having been compelled to leave the field and return to Chattanooga before the action was over.

The early disappearance of two corps commanders from the field also made a demoralizing impression. The loyal people certainly have cause for self-congratulation that the Army of the Cumberland was not completely destroyed, and owes profound gratitude to Gen. THOMAS and those under him that saved it. Our losses are great. That in killed, wounded and missing will probably reach ten thousand. Of artillery, we are less some fifty pieces, mostly lost on Sunday. Of wagons, loaded with ammunition and supplies, ambulances, &c., we have also lost a great number. They were abandoned in the retreat on Sunday.

Gen. ROSECRANS and his lieutenants were busily engaged on Monday in strengthening their position by field works, and reorganizing their commands. While the army itself may be considered safe enough, it is most certain that if the enemy have the advantage of greater numbers, flanking movements will compel ROSECRANS to retreat across the Tennessee, in case reinforcements should not promptly reach him.

REPORTS FROM LOUISVILLE.

LOUISVILLE, Friday, Sept. 25.

Scraps of information from passengers just arrived, lead to the belief that SHERMAN's corps of GRANT's army joined ROSECRANS on Tuesday or Wednesday, and that BURNSIDE's corps has more recently effected a junction at Grapevine.

Reports prevalent to-night on the street say that BURNSIDE's force has been captured; but nothing has passed over the wires to-day indicating such an event, and it is undoubtedly false.

A DISPATCH FROM GEN. GARFIELD.

Special Dispatch to the Chicago Evening Journal.

LOUISVILLE, Wednesday, Sept. 23.

Gen. GARFIELD telegraphs from Rossville at 8:40 P. M. on the 20th:

"THOMAS has left BAIRD's, BRANNON's, REYNOLDS', WOOD's and PALMER's divisions in good order, and has maintained almost the exact position occupied in the morning, except that the right has swung back.

LYTLE fought a most terrific battle, and has damaged the enemy badly. Gen. GRANGER's troops moved up just in time, and fought magnificently. The fighting was far fiercer than I ever saw. Our men not only held the ground, but at many points drove the enemy splendidly. LONGSTREET's Virginians have got their bellies full.

Nearly every division in the field exhausted its ammunition.

TURCHIN charged the rebel line and took five hundred prisoners, became enveloped, swept around behind their lines, and cut his way out in another place, but abandoned his prisoners.

Another brigade was attacked just at the close of the fight, and, its ammunition being exhausted, it went in with the bayonet, and drove the enemy, taking two hundred prisoners, and have them yet.

On the whole, THOMAS and GRANGER have done the enemy fully as much injury to-day as they have suffered from him, and successfully repelled repeated combined attacks most fiercely made by the rebel army, frequently pressing the front and both flanks at the same time.

Gen. MITCHELL left Crawfish Springs with his trains safe with him."

THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Reports for the Present to be Kept Back.

In compliance with a suggestion of the War Department, urging the advisability of preserving a strict silence at this time respecting present and prospective movements of the Army of the Potomac, we cheerfully withhold all reports of movements in Virginia. It is thought that the publication of anything now might prove adverse to our arms.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE.

Premiums Awarded at the Thirty-fifth Annual Fair of the American Institute.

As yesterday was the last of the American Institute Fair, there was a large attendance of visitors notwithstanding the inclement weather, and the scene of beauty and comfort inside of the Academy of Music was in brilliant contrast to the cloudy and rainy prospect without.

At 4½ P. M. the list of awards, which we give below and exclusively, was read aloud by Dr. JNO. B. RICH, of the Board of Managers.

The President of the Board then made a brief but happy address, alluding to the flattering prospects of the Institute and the advance of American cultivation, invention and manufacture in all their branches, notwithstanding the troublous nature of the times. Throughout the evening a very large concourse of guests, the majority of whom were ladies, were regaled by the music of the fine band and of amateur performers on the splendid pianos exhibited, and feasted their gaze and fancies upon the beautiful marvels displayed around them. At 10 o'clock, the signal was sounded, and in a few moments the fairy scene was dark and silent.

We are glad to learn that, in despite of numerous unusual drawbacks, the Institute has, upon this occasion, reaped a fair success, the receipts amounting sometimes to as much as $600 per diem. The various commodities were excellent in quality and not meagre in number. In the Horticultural Department the display of fruit, including the splendid importation from France was the finest ever seen in this country. The Board of Managers were untiring in their efforts to secure success, and were ably sustained by the exertions of their courteous Secretary, Mr. CHAMBERS.

THE CRUISE OF THE SHIP SABINE.

The Results of Her Efforts at Recruiting the Naval Service.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

UNITED STATES SHIP SABINE,
PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Friday, Sept. 18, 1863.

The following is a short summary of our doings since leaving New-York in August last. We were ordered by the Department to New-London, Conn., for the purpose of enlisting men in general service for the navy. Arriving there on the 9th of August, we immediately made preparations for recruiting, by engaging agents in the neighboring cities of Providence, New-Haven, Hartford and New-Bedford, issuing posters, advertising and offering inducements for men to ship.

From the great success we had last year, when over four hundred men shipped, we were very sanguine of a prosperous season, and indeed our expectations were in a fair way to be realized, when the ship was ordered to this place. Up to the time we left, recruits were commencing to offer themselves, and there was every prospect, as the season advanced, of our filling our rolls rapidly. After leaving our anchorage off New-London, and dropping down to the Point to await a fair wind, several men were brought on board by an agent from Providence, and twelve more, who had arrived from an adjacent city, turned back minus their traveling expenses, thinking the ship had sailed.

New-London, from its central position, numerous railroads and steamboats to New-York, Boston, Providence, New-Haven, &c., offers inducements and peculiar facilities for shipping seamen, and we were told by residents that, had the ship remained during the Fall and Winter months, numbers of the men who are then out of employment undoubtedly would have entered on board the Sabine in preference to going to the receiving ships at Boston and New-York. The recruits from the Eastern States being chiefly Americans, have a distaste to going to receiving-ships, where they are crowded together with the multitude, and, therefore prefer a vessel where they are disciplined and drilled to the duties and routine of a man-of-war.

Since our arrival here, no men have offered, and those who are informed assure us there is no prospect of obtaining any, either here or in any of the fishing towns to the north and east. The fishermen have had a very successful season, and wages being very high, they prefer, under these circumstances, to stay at home during the Winter, enjoying their hard-earned gains. Had Secretary WELLES, or his worthy assistant, Mr. FOX, known the success we were to have at New-London, and our want of it here, they surely would have kept this ship at the former place, where she would have been of great service.

Provincetown is situated in a bight of Cape Cod, and the inhabitants are employed entirely in the mackerel and cod fishing, and packing. The harbor is a very fine and capacious one, plenty of water, and well sheltered from the prevailing winds. The steamer George Shattuck arrives twice a week from Boston, (with passengers,) keeping the townspeople well supplied with fresh provisions, fruit, vegetables, &c. The mail arrives here every evening at 8:30, and leaves every morning at 4. It is carried in a stage to Hyannis, a distance of 35 miles, from thence to Boston by railroad. The people here say the Winters are very mild, that when the snow is lying two and three feet deep in and around Boston, not a particle will be seen at this place, owing to the influence of the sea air.

Greek Fire.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The newspapers lately have exhausted a great deal of learning and hypothesis on the subject of Greek fire. Let chemists say what they please, the secret of its composition was lost soon after the Crusades, if it ever was known out of the arsenals of Constantinople, which is doubtful. In running through a library of military dictionaries the writer found almost as many analysis, differing, however, but little, as articles upon the subject.

DRAPER, in his Intellectual Development of Europe, published the current year, remarks:

"Of liquid or Greek fire we have not a precise description, since the knowledge of it was kept at Constantinople as a State secret. There is reason, however, to believe that it contained sulphur and nitrate of potash mixed with naptha."

The Dictionary of Origins agrees with the generality that CALLINICUS invented it in 673, but does not pretend to give the ingredients, adding that water augmented its fury, which oil subdued. The Saracens certainly understood its use, or had a similar preparation after, but not before the epoch of the Crusades. It was fired from mortar and rocket batteries, so to speak, and thrown like hand carcases or grenades, and even discharged from hand tubes. But already at this era other kinds of combustibles were confounded with Greek fire, and it is unsusceptible of proof if, up to 1218, Christian engineers were at all acquainted with anything but its effects. The fact that they mention that the only means of extinguishing it was vinegar mingled with sand and urine, shows that the real Greek fire was no longer extensively used, for whence could they have derived sufficient vinegar as an antagonist to a general missile, if in common use in an active campaign? This invests the whole Crusading story with doubt, and classes it with the fable of Hannibal's dissolving the Alpine rocks with vinegar.

From the Thirteenth to the Eighteenth Century the secret was lost. LOUIS XV. is said to have paid its rediscoverer, DUFRE, for destroying this recipe. The French pretend that in 1794 a Protestant minister, of Charlestown, (? U. S.,) COSTE, rediscovered Greek fire, and in 1797 a Mons. CHEVALIER something equivalent, but in neither case is any analysis given.

Some moderns ridicule the idea of the efficacy of even vinegar for extinguishing Greek fire, for the preparation of which the Byzantines are said to have had thirty recipes. Some such incendiary matter has never ceased to be employed. TIPPOO SAIB used something similar against the English, and the artificer RUGGIERI tried in vain to have it adopted in the French army in 1795. A French recipe gives, saltpetre 16 parts, sulphur 8, and mealed powder 21⅓. It is very questionable, however, if congreve rockets, or incendiary balls, carcases and shells are not much more fierce, destructive and unmanageable than Greek fire ever was. Distance, which lends enchantmen to the view, often invests ancient combustibles and appliances with fabulous terrors and effects. The East, the land of bitumen, seems to have furnished naptha in abundance as the basis of incendiary compositions, generalized as Greek fire, and our earth oils, petroleum, would doubtless be as inflammable and destructive if hurled at the short distances at which fleets and armies engaged in the Middle Ages.

THIROUX, author of the well-known French Artillery Manual, would have ferreted out the composition of Greek fire if any one could have done so. He says that the Orientals united mixtures of saltpetre, charcoal and sulphur with different kinds of resin and oil of naptha; sometimes they threw simply oil of naptha in earthen pots, which, having burst and wet whatever their contents diffused themselves over, the naptha was then set on fire by some simple incendiary matter immediately following. He remarks that Greek fire was probably some incendiary composition like the fire-balls in Roman candles. BURNS, an English Captain of artillery, remarks, it is supposed to have been compounded of the gum of the pine and other resins, pulverized with sulphur, naptha, camphor, petroliem, and other bitumious substances.

Finally, ZEDLER in his famous Lexicon, published in sixty-four volumes prior to 1750, a work so remarkable and reliable as almost to elevate itself to the rank of the intellectual wonders of its era, gives the following as the components of Greek fire: Sulphur, rock oil or petroleum, pitch, gum, resin and other materials not mentioned, which not to be mentioned in his work is almost sufficient of itself to prove that they were unknown, since if ZEDLER's correspondent could not fish them out of the old mediæval libraries, then no books contained the analysis. The Encyclopædia Britannica coincides almost exactly with ZEDLER'S Universal Lexicon, stating that it was composed of sulphur, naptha, pitch, gum and bitumen; that it burnt even under water, and with greater violence in water than out of it, and that it was only extinguishable by a mixture of vinegar, sand and urine, or by the application of raw hides, which is as much a humbug as the additional statement that it had a principle of self-propulsion when once set a going in any direction. This would invest it with a power akin to perpetual motion, while it lasted, which is nonsense.

In summa, after long investigation, the writer has come to the conclusion that there is more fable than fact in the received accounts of Greek fire, and more humbug than reality in the story of its effects.

ANCHOR.

Knights of the Golden Circle in the South for Twenty Years.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I am a Norwegian by birth; followed the sea from the age of 12, and came to the United States in 1835, at the age of 22.

From about 1836 to 1846 I acted as captain and pilot on board a number of steamboats along the Southern coast, and at New-Orleans as commander of the steamboat Independence, in the employ of the Gretny Ferry Company. My acquaintance with Southern society during some eight or ten years prior to 1846, was pretty extensive. As the origin of the Order of the Knights of the Golden Circle dates back to about that time, (a fact not generally known at the North,) I will state a conversation that occurred between myself and Mr. HYDE, the President of the Gretny Ferry Company, at the City of New Orleans, while I was acting as captain and commander of said steamboat, in their employ. One day Mr. HYDE invited me into his private office, rang for his servant, ordered champagne and segars, and addressing me as Capt. OLSEN, said: "I am about to confer a great honor upon you, by making you a member of the Knights of the Golden Circle." I said I have heard of the Order, but I wish to know the nature and object of the institution. He said it was a compact by oath of fidelity to the South; that sooner or later there would be war between the Northern and Southern States; that the North was getting too strong in men and wealth, and must be curbed; that the Southern men were the only men fit to rule, and they intended to keep the helm; that they were opposed to naturalizing foreigners in less than twenty-one years, and that they preferred a more despotic form of Government; that they had in the South hundreds of thousands of ignorant men, just fit for soldiers, who could scarcely read or write, who would make a good standing army, while the noble chivalry of the South were the ablest men in the world, and were destined to rule this country, come what might. These are not probably his exact words, but the substance was as I have stated. He took down a very large book, containing the names of a number of thousand men—the leading politicians and planters, and merchants and others—all of whom had subscribed to the Articles, and taken the oath of the order of this secret society.

I said I had heard enough—I did not like the principles of their Order; that I left all that was dear to me at home, because my spirit would not permit me to be trampled on by tyrants. That I had enjoyed liberty under the Stars and Stripes, and knew only the whole United States. He said, I was foolish; —that I ought to be proud of the offer of membership to the Knights of the Golden Circle; that it was seldom that any foreigner was received; but that they wanted such men as were able to command on land or water; and that such could command their own price, and whatever place they might ask for, if they belonged to the Order when the rupture should come, as it certainly would. We drank the wine, but I was not converted; and we separated. I made my last voyage as commander in 1854.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 18, 1863.

Affairs at Vicksburgh.

Correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.

VICKSBURGH, Thursday, Sept. 10.

The splendid Seventeenth army corps, Gen. MCPHERSON is in charge of, and encamped within and around the city. Its labors have been great since the siege, as its deeds were heroic during its progress. It has placed the city above pestilence and given it the inestimable boon of health. Streets have been made and houses built, storerooms erected and fortifications excavated. A railroad has been built from here to Big Black, to furnish the Fifteenth army corps with supplies and the region round about with food, which was no light labor. When we came here the railway shops and engines were destroyed. Rails were bent, tools were thrown away, machines were broken, everything that could be taken from the engines were taken, until we had only the boilers and wheels.

Gen. MCPHERSON detailed Col. COOLBAUGH, of his Staff, to place the road in order and rebuild the engines. The task, considering the fact that there was nothing to work with, seemed a hard one; but it was done. Artisans from the army were detailed, tools were made, a foundery was attached to the shops, and brass and iron cast for the work. In two days there was one engine gathered together, and in one week another.

Two weeks ago an engine, named the "Gen. Sherman," was turned out of the shops, and in strolling to the same vicinity yesterday, I saw two others in a state of finish that would do credit to any workmen. They were of the manufacture originally of ROGERS & Co., of Paterson, N. J., and are as good as new. They are called the "Gen. Grant" and "Gen. McPherson." The shield in a fold of flags is their escutcheon. It gladdens the heart of a patriot to see the old flag and the United States military railroad painted on the rebel engines and cars.

We have now five engines in excellent order, three of them as good as new; and "Gen. McPherson," in the selection of Col. COOLBAUGH for the position, proved that "peace has her victories no less renowned than war."

Finance and Trade in New-Orleans.

TUESDAY EVENING, Sept. 15.

The tenor of affairs connected with finance and trade was something on the order of general nihilism to-day. From the opening to the closing of business it was a repetition of what has transpired for a month past. There were some few banterings in cotton and sugar, the latter article being in request for the St. Louis market, and cotton being an object for investment for shipment North, or for local speculation. The supply of the grand staple is next to none at all, nor do we observe any prospect of any increase in the receipt of the great staples which have occupied the attention of the commercial world for months past.—New-Orleans Picayune, Sept. 16.

ANOTHER CASE UNDER THE PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION—A DECISION BY JUDGE LUDLOW.—On Saturday the effect of the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus was made the subject of discussion in the Quarter Sessions, before Judge LUDLOW. A writ had been issued, and served early in the week, and before the date of the President's Proclamation. It was directed to Dr. ISAAC HAYS, in charge of one of the Military Hospitals. On Saturday, when the case was called up, the United States District Attorney called attention to the President's Proclamation, and to Judge CADWALADER's decision that it suspended proceedings in cases where the writ had already issued. The counsel for the relator insisted that his client did not come within the term of the proclamation. The writ had, he said, been served upon "ISAAC HAYS, M. D.," and there was no allegation in the petition that the relator was held as a soldier.

Mr. COFFEY, in reply, urged that as it was well known that Dr. HAYS was in charge of a military hospital, and that the relator was a soldier in his charge, the petition should have so averred, in order that the Court might have information in regard to the nature of the custody of which there was complaint. The counsel on the other side contended that these facts could be stated on the return, which he urged should be made by Dr. HAYS. After further discussion in regard to the return, Judge LUDLOW said: Whatever may be the legitimate effect of the President's Proclamation, suspending the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus in certain specified cases, it can hardly be contended that any person, be he officer or citizen, can, under the order of the President, seize and hold a citizen for any cause not specified in the Proclamation, or embraced within its terms.

The act of Congress expressly provides that the officer receiving a writ of habeas corpus shall certify to the Court by whose order he holds the person named in the writ; and as the writ in this instance was served before the proclamation was issued, it may be a question whether the act of Congress does not require the officer to make a return in the form of a certificate.

At the present time I do not intend to decide any questions appertaining to the suspension of the writ, but as the subject requires careful consideration, and as, for the sake of uniformity of action of the three Judges of this Court, some practice should be established or decision rendered, I direct rules to show cause why returns should not be made by the various persons upon whom writs have been served or attachments to be issued, to be entered of record and be made returnable on Saturday next, and I shall invite both of my colleagues to be present at the hearing of these rules, when counsel may submit to the Court such arguments as they see fit.—Phila. Ledger, Sept. 21.

LIBERAL BEQUESTS.—The will of B. D. BROWN, filed yesterday at the office of the Register of Wills, contains the following liberal bequests to benevolent institutions in this city: $2,000 to the House of Refuge for Colored Juvenile Delinquents; $2,000 to the Rosine Association; $4,000 to the Northern Association for the Relief and Employment of Poor Women; $3,000 to the Foster Home Association; house and lot in Second-street, between Arch-street and Coombs'-alley, to the Home for Destitute Colored Children; $3,000 for Northern Home for Friendless Children; $3,000 to Union Benevolent Association; $300 to Children's Hospital; and the remainder of the estate, after paying some private legacies, to such benevolent institutions as the executors may select. —Philadelphia Ledger, Sept. 24.

—The Richmond Sentinel, of Sept. 22, says: "There was considerable frost in the neighborhood of Richmond yesterday morning. To what extent vegetation has been injured, we have not learned; but fear the effect on tender plants has been destructive. Yesterday the air was pure, skies bright, and, at noon, warm. The ladies have taken advantage of the pleasant weather and dust-laid streets, and graced the public thoroughfares with their presence in unusual numbers."

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

THE MAIDEN'S BLUSH.—Incomparably the most beautiful of apples—the Queen Pomological—is the specimen of the Maiden's Blush, now on exhibition at the Agriculturist Office, No. 41 Park-row. It is a mooted point, and one which nothing but nothing will satisfactorily settle, to the great majority of those seeing it, whether nature did the work or the exquisite skill of some cunning hand in wax. But it has the fruity odor, and there is the parole d'honneur of those attached to the office as to its genuine growth. 'Tis fitly named, for maiden's cheek never wore a more delicate or loveller hue. The specimen is from Iowa; it is almost a shame to drop to the common-places and say that the Maiden's Blush is good for the table either "stewed, raw or roasted."

NOXIOUS GAS AT YORKVILLE AND HARLEM.—The residents of Yorkville and Harlem have been suffering from the sickening odor caused by the gas, and on Thursday night the greater portion turned off the nauseating supply and substituted what else they could. The stench was unendurable, and was everywhere. The Harlem Company have, as a consequence, been the recipients of severe censure. What caused this is not satisfactorily known, but it is generally attributed to the bad material used in the manufacture. Silver and silver plate were discolored by the exhalation—a pretty strong evidence of its noxious character.

AID TO THE FREEDMEN AND COLORED SOLDIERS.—The American Freedmen's Friend Society, will hold a meeting in behalf of the Freedmen, and a relief fund for the colored soldier, at the Methodist Church in Bridge-street, between Myrtle-avenue and Johnson-street, on Sabbath evening, Sept. 27, at 8 o'clock. Addresses may be expected from Col. FAIRMAN, of New-York; Prof. RAYMOND and THEO. TILTON, Esq., of Brooklyn, and others. A collection will be taken up for the above objects.

SUPPOSED MURDER OF A NEW-YORK MERCHANT.—Some of the Detroit papers state that Mr. H. H. KEY, of the firm of JOHNSON, KEY & Co., of this City, mysteriously disappeared from the Garrison House, Detroit, Thursday week, where he was stopping, and had not been heard of. He had some money with him and apprehensions of foul play were entertained.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE SONS OF TEMPERANCE.—The celebration of the twenty-first anniversary of the Order of the Sons of Temperance will take place next week. On Monday evening there will be a public meeting at Cooper Institute, at which distinguished speakers will be present, and which the Order in a body will attend. Delegations from other cities are expected.

TRADE BOOK SALE—FOURTH DAY.—Another large attendance yesterday, spirited bidding and good sales. The catalogues of L. PRANG & Co., JAS. O'KANE and JAS. SOMERVILLE, embracing photographic pictures and albums, were gone through with, and the book invoices of Messrs. MASON BROTHERS, F. J. HUNTINGTON, G. & C. MERRIAM, and BLANCHARD & LEA were disposed of.

REV. DR. MASSIE.—Rev. Dr. MASSIE, of London, who visited the United States as a representative of four thousand clergymen of England, and presented to the President a letter from them expressing their sympathy with the North, delivers a farewell sermon at the Broadway Tabernacle tomorrow evening.

THE CONQUERING MATCH.—On Monday, HAMMILL and WARD, the famous oarsmen, have the conquering match at Poughkeepsie, for the championship. Both men have been actively training for the final test of supremacy, and the match will be of more interest than any that has yet taken place between them.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—Rev. Dr. OSGOOD will preach at the rooms of the New-England Soldiers' Relief Association Sunday, Sept. 27, at 3 P. M. The public are respectfully invited to attend.

FRIDAY, Sept. 25—P. M.

The price of Gold Coin advanced 1@1½ ₱ cent. to-day; sales in the afternoon at 138@138¼ ₱ cent. Exchange on London was not active for the steamers to-morrow, but the business done was at 152@152½ ₱ cent. for first-class Bankers'. The advance on Gold was attributed to the revised accounts of the battles near Chattanooga, which are deemed less favorable to Gen. ROSECRANS.

The market for Money to-day is 6@7 ₱ cent. per annum to the Brokers, at which rates the supply from lenders is easy. The Banks hold about $23,000,000 United States legal tender to-day, as against $20,000,000 on Saturday last, after passing $3,500,000 into the Treasury. To-morrow they will pay an additional $3,500,000, and will afterward hold about $20,000,000 United States legal tender. By the accumulation from the interior of $350,000 to $400,000 per day of United States Currency, the Bank movement is kept steady and quite equal to the recent negotiation with the Treasury, without disturbing the market.

On the Stock Exchange the Government Securities continue firm, and at the United States Loan Agencies the demand for the Popular Loan on 5-20 years 6 ₱ cent. Stock is on the increase. The Railway speculation to-day is weaker than on Thursday, and at one time, on the Street, the disposition to press sales of New-York Central, Erie, Michigan Southern, &c., amounted almost to a panic. This eagerness to sell, however, was not from the want of Money to carry the Stocks offered, but rather to make lower quotations for the Afternoon Board. At that Board there was a good demand at the reduced figures, and the inclination of prices was to improvement on nearly the whole Railway list. There was very considerable excitement during the session of the Board, especially on New-York Central and Michigan Southern, and the division of opinion as to the course of the market for the next few days appeared to be about equally divided.

At 4 o'clock the following prices were made as compared with Thursday afternoon, the general market leaving off somewhat feverish:

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

We give this morning additional fuller and deeply interesting details, which have come by telegraph, respecting the battles in Northern Georgia. It will be seen that the first accounts were inaccurate in many particulars.

Our special correspondent at Washington states that Gen. ROSECRANS, in his official dispatches, charges the loss of the late battle to Gen. MCCOOK'S disobedience of orders, in failing to occupy an important position that had been assigned to him.

Rossville, to which the army of Gen. ROSECRANS retreated after the battles of the 19th and 20th, is a small post village, lying directly on the line separating Tennessee and Georgia. It is at the foot of a mountainous range, some seven miles south of Chattanooga, and between the East and West Chickamauga Rivers. From this place, two roads lead to the scene of the late bloody engagements. It may be necessary for ROSECRANS to fall back still further, to avoid being flanked on his left, by the road leading from Ringgold, (Taylor's Gap,) across the West Chickamauga to Chattanooga. But, at Rossville, he can withstand any direct attack. He can at any time withdraw to the north side of the Tennessee, and save his army.

There is much anxiety felt in Washington respecting Gen. BURNSIDE'S army. The opinion of military men was that if he attempted to move down on this side of the Tennessee River, instead of crossing it, he would be cut off.

The Anglo-rebel steamer Juno, a prize taken off Wilmington on the 22d inst. by the U. S. gunboat Connecticut, arrived at this port last evening on the way to Boston. She is a new vessel, has a full cargo of Southern staples, principally cotton, and is valued at a high figure.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Cincinnati Commercial says that a private dispatch from Capt. HUNTER BROOKS was received in that city on the 23d, stating that Gen. LYTLE was not killed, as reported in the regular Associated Press dispatch, but was severely wounded and taken prisoner. It is a singular coincidence that Gen. LYTLE was wounded and fell into the hands of the enemy at the battle of Perrysville, and that the regular dispatches announced his death.

An arrival from Bermuda informs us that the contraband traffic between those islands and various ports in the rebellious States is very brisk. The Gazette publishes a list of steamers that keep up a regular communication between Wilmington and other Confederate ports.

It is stated in a private letter received in Washington, that the amount of the first claim (100,000l.) against the Florida, now at Brest, had been arranged by Mr. SLIDELL, and that the other claims would be satisfactorily adjusted.

A United States District Judge in Pittsburgh, Judge MCCANDLESS, has rendered a decision to the effect that resisting an enrolling officer is not an indictable offence, and that the law only recognizes resistance to the execution of the draft itself.

Gov. BUCKINGHAM, of Connecticut, has decided that a person who has been exempted from the operation of the draft is still liable to be called on to do service in the State militia.

It is stated, on the best authority, that out of two millions of dollars of postal currency that have been canceled and burned, not two hundred were counterfeit. The imitations are said to be poor, and easily detected.

It is rumored in Washington that the Russian squadron now in our harbor may remain here all Winter.

Gold Coin was 1@1¼ ℔ cent. higher yesterday, closing 138@138¼ ℔ cent. Exchange on London 152@152½. Money easy at 6@7 ℔ cent. The Government Stocks were firm, but other descriptions lower than on Thursday. The Railway Shares were quite unsettled in the afternoon.

Breadstuffs were in more demand, yesterday, at generally higher prices. Provisions were in fair request, and quoted firmer. Cotton was quiet at former quotations. A moderate business was transacted in Whisky, Hops, Hides, Metals, Oils, Fish, Spices, Tallow and Groceries. Hay, Fruit, Leather, Seeds, Wool and Tobacco were in good demand. Freights were extremely quiet.

THE DRAFT NO FAILURE.—The Copperhead Press will never be done clamoring it into the ears of the country that the "conscription is a failure," that "the draft has produced no men," and that the Government must, at last, rely on volunteering, stimulated by bounties, to fill up the ranks of our armies. But it is not altogether true, we apprehend, that the draft is a failure. It is not a failure, either in a moral or material sense. It has afforded the opportunity of establishing beyond all question the supremacy of the National Government, the devotion of the people to it, and their determination to uphold it against secret foes and open enemies. Certain political schemers thought they held in their hands a veto on the National Government—and that they only needed a ukase from the Executive Chamber at Albany or Trenton, or even from the "Pewter Mug" of this City, to bring the Administration to its knees before a local faction, or on its back before the rebels at Richmond. This delusion is past, and the country is infinitely stronger and better for it.

Materially, the conscription is no failure. It will produce a large army under the first call, and a second call can be made and enforced as the first was. This will be done, if necessary. But the conscription has yielded something besides a great moral result and an army. It has yielded about $5,500,000 of money, which, offered in bounties, will rapidly call into the field soldiers for still another army. Volunteering is a good thing, and the Government has never lost faith in it. But large bounties are a wonderful stimulus to volunteering, and the Government, through the conscription, has money to offer to its volunteer soldiers. It is right that the people should pay these bounties, and not the Government. The citizens owe their military service to the country. If they fail to render it, they should pay for the service of those who take their places. This the conscription compels them to do. And in doing this, it puts the burden of raising an army where it rightly belongs. The draft is, therefore, no "failure," but a good "institution."

Rosecrans at Chattanooga.

The fact that Gen. ROSECRANS is able to hold Chattanooga, is the most important and encouraging feature in the results of the late battle. The capture of that great strategic centre, and its permanent occupation by a large army, has been the main object of operations in the region stretching from the Ohio River to the mountains ever since the war began. We are there established in the centre of the so-called Confederate territory, and from his lofty lines Gen. ROSECRANS not only defends Tennessee and Kentucky in his rear, but menaces the upper regions of Georgia and both Carolinas, and practically nullifies all rebel operations between the Coosa and the Mississippi. So long as Gen. ROSECRANS shall hold Chattanooga, we shall regard his Fall campaign through Middle Tennessee as a great success, even though, unfortunately, we cannot claim the late battle in Northern Georgia as a victory. We have reason to believe that the possession of this point was the sole immediate object of Gen. ROSECRANS. It was undoubtedly his purpose to fight BRAGG as soon as his strategy drew the latter out from Chattanooga, or while the rebel army was in course of getting out, but it was not his intention to pursue BRAGG down through Central Georgia until such time as he had secured his position and his line of communications, and established a secondary base on the Tennessee River. His advance southward of Chattanooga was not for the purpose of fighting the then escaped army of BRAGG, as the position and line of advance of the three corps of his army prove. BRAGG would have still been pursued, but it would have been when ROSECRANS had secured himself and had received such reinforcements as were necessary for the work, and which he had in vain attempted to obtain.

It was at this critical moment in the rebel fortunes, or rather it was some days before this, that JEFF. DAVIS fully realized the perils of the Southern Confederacy, and it was then that he made the declaration, furnished to the world by the Chattanooga Rebel, "that he would snatch Tennessee from the clutches of the Abolitionists, if it took the united armies of the South to accomplish it." Regiments were flung forward from East, West and South, in such numbers, and so rapidly, that BRAGG was able to assume the offensive, and the indecisive battle of last Saturday and Sunday was the result. We may here make a remark, that we consider it peculiarly fortunate that just at this juncture, Gen. BURNSIDE was in East Tennessee, and held Knoxville and the line of the great East Tennessee and Virginia Railroad, which was far the speediest and easiest route by which to transport reinforcements to BRAGG from Virginia, and which, if in the rebel hands, would have enabled them to operate, strategically, with much greater success against ROSECRANS.

We now again urge the military authorities to heavily and quickly reinforce Gen. ROSECRANS. He is in a strong position, but having just fought a great battle, and having an enemy twice his own strength in his front, he cannot be considered perfectly safe from attack, nor can it be considered sure that the rebels will not attempt some flanking operation. One of our cotemporaries has suggested that ROSECRANS needs supplies for his present army more even than additions to his force; but it must be remembered that he holds firmly his line of communications with Murfreesboro and Nashville, and can obtain all needed supplies in that way. What he imperatively needs at this moment is men.

MAJ.-GEN. THOMAS.—The full accounts that are reaching us from the hard-contested field near Chickamauga Creek do justice to the services of one of the ablest and most successful Generals in the Union army—Maj.-Gen. THOMAS. It appears that this gallant soldier bore the brunt of the rebel attack unharmed, on both days of the fight, though the onset in each case was impetuous and overwhelming. It is no discredit to the corps of Gens. MCCOOK and CRITTENDEN that they were broken by the outnumbering hosts of the enemy. The metal of these men had been tried before, and they are known and approved as among the bravest of our Union soldiers. But if a part of the gallant army of ROSECRANS could be driven back without disgrace, it must not be denied that unusual credit and renown are due to that portion which withstood every shock, and dealt horrible slaughter upon a foe so numerous as to be deemed invincible. This is the signal merit of the corps of Gen. THOMAS in the sanguinary battle in Northern Georgia. The stubborn fighting of this portion of the army is all that saved the fortunes of the day, as we understand the contest at this distance; and if the enemy fails to follow up his supposed advantages, it will be mainly because of the damaging blows inflicted by this heroic General.

Gen. THOMAS is a Southerner, a native-born Virginian, and will be remembered as the leader of the Union forces in that first fortunate and decisive battle in Kentucky, Mill Spring, in which Gen. ZOLLICOFFER lost his life, and the rebel Gen. CRITTENDEN was driven across the Cumberland and out of the State in such confusion and rout. He has the prestige of success, and richly deserves the gratitude of the nation.

The Liberal Sentiment in England.

We commented recently upon the extent to which the scarcity of labor, combined with the rapid growth of trade in Europe, had lessened that abhorrence of Slavery which thirty years ago everybody either had, or affected to have. In fact, it is one of the lamentable results of the prodigious expansion of commerce and industry which this century has witnessed, that material progress has come to be looked on in almost all countries rather as a means of making money than as a means of improving the condition of the human race. Capital is somewhat outraged by the pretensions of labor, and unwillingness to labor to any extent that may be necessary to make "investments" profitable, has gradually come to be looked on as a crime. This is at the bottom of most of the furious denunciations that we so constantly hear of the Jamaica and Hayti negroes; and when one of the apostles of this new school of political philosophy shows you that fifty thousand dollars, put into a plantation, would bring thirty per cent. if he could get labor, he is scandalized by your doubts of the lawfulness of his seizing as many men and women as he can lay hands on and lashing them into industry. What is perhaps strangest and saddest in it all is, that the chief of this school should be THOMAS CARLYLE, who thirty years ago preached the young men and women into furious quest of the "better life," and made the welkin ring with his denunciations of fraud, injustice and all other species of Slavery.

It is pleasant, however, now and then to hear the still small voice of humanity and reason rising above the passionate clamor of grinding greed, particularly when it comes from men whose sympathies we hardly expect to be "popular." The true democratic theory of social progress, that which makes the comfort, happiness and elevation of all men of whatever race, and not the accumulation of large fortunes in the hands of a few, the great object of industrial enterprise, has never been more earnestly enunciated than by the greatest of English thinkers—JOHN STUART MILL. "Hitherto," he says, "it is questionable if all the mechanical inventions yet made have lightened the day's toil of any human being. They have enabled a greater population to live the same life of drudgery and imprisonment, and an increased number of manufacturers and others to make large fortunes. They have increased the comforts of the middle classes. But they have not yet begun to effect those great changes in human destiny which it is in their nature and in their futurity to accomplish." And he adds, "that the conquests made from the powers of nature, by the intellect and energy of scientific discovery, ought to be the common property of the species, and the means of improving and elevating the universal lot. In other words, the fertility or peculiar properties of the soil or climate, the strength of the steam-engine, the dexterity of the cotton gin, the swiftness of the power-loom, so far from furnishing an excuse for the degradation and brutalization of any of God's creatures, ought to be the means of increasing their comfort and lightening their toil."

Lord STANLEY, the Earl of Derby's eldest son, the heir of the oldest and proudest of the great tory houses of England, though intellectually one of the clearest headed and most vigorous of the new generation of statesmen, is so thoroughly impregnated with the spirit of the "good time coming," that even he, an aristocrat of aristocrats, in an address delivered a fortnight ago, in Liverpool, uttered the following emphatic confirmation of MILL'S theory:

"It is to industrial science we must look, not as the sole means, undoubtedly, but as an indispensable means toward the development of a higher civilization. There is a slavery which we all understand, which we all denounce, which we all seek to do away with—that of man to man. But there is another kind of servitude, less bitter, indeed, because not created by the tyranny of man, but of circumstances—the servitude of those whose whole existence, from dawn to darkness, from youth to age, is an incessant, unrelieved struggle to supply their daily wants. What is the first step to raise these—even now they are not few—to a better and sounder position? Law can do nothing; charity can only do what is worse than nothing. What they need is to have a portion of their drudgery taken off their hands—to have slaves to do their work for them—not human slaves—God forbid!—but to summon to their aid those hidden powers of nature which it has pleased our Maker to subject to the control of man's intelligence and will. This is the first condition of genuine social progress."

It would be difficult to put in apter language the fundamental ideas of our Government and social system. The right of each individual to pursue happiness in his own way and with all the aids which the powers of nature offer him, or in other words the emancipation of labor from all the fetters which greed and tyranny have placed upon it, is the principle of all others which this Republic seeks to represent, and on which it rests its strongest claim to the good wishes of mankind. And it is this principle which we now defend in arms against the Confederacy, and which the triumph of our enemies would seriously shake. They seek to restrict the gifts of Providence to the few, and we to secure them for the many; and it would be doubting that Providence to doubt the issue.

CHARLESTON HARBOR.—Since the evacuation of Forts Wagner and Gregg by the rebels, and the occupation of the whole of Morris Island by our troops, twenty days ago, operations seem to have come to a complete stand-still in Charleston harbor. Gen. GILLMORE has not fired a shot during these three weeks, and our iron-clad navy has not fired a shot that has done any service. It is said that Gen. GILLMORE considers his preliminary operations ended in reducing Fort Sumter and the works on Morris Island, and that he now expects the monitors to push their way inside of the harbor. It was certainly the understanding of the whole country that when these operations were performed, the monitors would next act actively about their work, and it was even universally believed that they could then push directly up to Charleston itself. The plea put in for their inaction is that there are insurmountable obstructions in the harbor, and that until these are removed no progress can be made. We have not heard that any determined or intelligent efforts have been made to remove them. At this distance it simply seems as if the whole army and navy were—stuck.

One favorable point in the view, however, is this, that Gen. GILLMORE, with his guns, commands the City of Charleston. The nest of treason lies at his mercy. This must have somewhat of a demoralizing influence upon the rebels in that quarter. But we cannot help hoping that more active work will soon be undertaken, and that the operations so brilliantly begun by the army, will be carried to a glorious termination by army and navy.

Perfidy of the Confederate Authorities.

The action of Gen. GRANT in paroling the 30,000 rebel soldiers captured by him at Vicksburgh was universally commended at the time as a humane, generous and economical disposition of them. It spared the rebel prisoners the hardships of a protracted confinement in the North; it was a tribute to the fortitude with which the enemy had borne the siege; and it relieved the Government from the necessity of detailing a large guard to accompany and hold the prisoners, when the army was needed for immediate operations against Gen. JO. JOHNSTON, and also from the expense of transportation and subsistence for so large a body of men for so long a time, and for so great a distance as they would have had to travel, before delivered up in exchange.

But it is fair to conclude that if Gen. GRANT had to do his work over again, with present lights, he would do differently. He would trust to no nice sentiments of the men he had subdued, and put no confidence in the rebel Government whose army he was releasing and returning.

There were persons who had, at the time, their misgivings of the result—persons who did not hesitate to express belief in the "total depravity" of the Confederate leaders, and to predict that the parol generously allowed by GRANT would be disregarded by the rebels, whenever they found it their interest to do so. This distrust of Confederate honor seemed justified in the publications of certain rebel newspapers soon after the surrender of Vicksburgh, which maintained that the parol was not in accordance with the cartel between the two belligerents, and ought to be disregarded. Still later, most urgent orders and appeals appeared in all the Southern papers, calling on the soldiers of PEMBERTON'S army to assemble at certain camps in the Confederacy for reorganization. They were assured that they would be provided with "immediate exchange" and placed where they could renew their rebellious struggles. Inasmuch as OUR own Government was many thousands ahead in the number of prisoners held, it was notorious that the rebel leaders had no reasonable ground for making this assurance, and it was feared that they meditated a treacherous disregard of the parol granted to the Vicksburgh garrison, in these attempts to gather them again into camp under their former leaders.

Events have sustained the suspicion of rebel foul play in the premises. It appears that an order has been published in the South, over the signature of Commissioner OULD, declaring that certain portions—amounting to about 10,000 men—of PEMBERTON'S army had been exchanged and were returned to active service. These were, no doubt, about the number of Vicksburgh prisoners that the Confederates had been able to reassemble; and these men, it is stated, formed part of the grand army with which BRAGG has just attempted to overwhelm Gen. ROSECRANS!

What must the people of the United States—what must the civilized nations think, when they learn that the rebel announcement of the exchange of any part of PEMBERTON'S late army is a falsehood, and the employment of the men again in active service an outrage on the rules of civilized war, covering the so-called Confederacy with new dishonor, and exposing the paroled prisoners, if recaptured, to the penalty of death. The Government at Washington, wholly repudiate the publication of Commissioner OULD. They know nothing of any such exchange as he pretends to have effected. The action of the Confederates in this matter, shows them desperate in their straits, lost to honor and to shame, and justly exposes them to the severest retaliation. But our Government must wait for new conquests before a fitting response to the rebel infamy can be made. Unluckily, the generosity of our authorities has let slip the advantages we held in having in possession the majority of prisoners. We cannot punish a wrong, which the world must hold in abhorrence for its unmitigated treachery, without holding odds in our hands equal to the disparity between good faith and falsehood.

OUR RUSSIAN NAVAL VISITORS.—The Russian steam frigate Osliaba, which came into our harbor ten days ago from Cadiz, and whose officers have been so cordially welcomed by our municipal authorities and by our citizens generally, was yesterday joined by four more Russian men-of-war, recently from Cronstadt, comprising two steam frigates—the Alexander Newsky and the Peresvet—and two corvettes, the Vitiaze and the Variag. The squadron will be reinforced in a day or two by three clippers named Almas, Isamvond and Iahont. The Alexander Newsky is the flagship of the squadron, and the whole are under the command of Rear-Admiral LASOFSKY.

This is the only fleet of Russian vessels that has ever been seen in our waters, and its appearance at this particular time will doubtless give rise to a variety of speculations among our own people, and perhaps to still more anxious perturbations on the other side of the Atlantic. It is most likely a coincidence which has no great political significance, but it fortunately affords an opportunity, eagerly desired by our citizens, of giving a hospitable welcome to the representatives of the only leading European Power which has manifested any sympathy for us as a people during our life struggle, or exhibited anything like candor in the view it has taken of the position of our Government in its present contest with rebels. We are glad to see that the City Government has taken the matter in hand, and we hope that the arrangements for the entertainment of our Russian visitors will be such as to give full expression to the friendly feelings and hospitable desires entertained toward them by the American people.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 25.

A DASH INTO MARYLAND BY WHITE'S CAVALRY.

Recently a body of WHITE'S cavalry crossed the Potomac River at the eight mile level into Montgomery County, Maryland, and intercepted a canal-boat going to Harper's Ferry, taking therefrom fifty bags of salt and other merchandise, amounting in value to about $1,000. These they carried over the Potomac in a scow taken from the canal.

It is reported that they also intercepted a farmer at Medley's Station returning home with the proceeds of the sale of his wheat crop, and robbed him of $800 to $1,000; but some of the gang, knowing the farmer to be poor, succeeded in having the money returned to him.

A COMMAND FOR GEN. HOOKER.

Gen. HOOKER has been assigned to an important command, in a field where his brilliant fighting qualities will find their full scope.

REBELS CIRCUMVENTED.

The attempt on the part of the rebels to establish batteries at Mathias Point, has been frustrated by our gunboats.

INTERNAL REVENUE DECISION.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided, relative to licensing wholesale dealers, that where their sales reach two millions of dollars, requiring therefor $500 license, an additional license of $250 should be required where their sales are in excess thereof, in any sum not exceeding one million. The effect of this decision is to make the section consistent with itself, and to establish regular gradation. For sales of $1,000,000, and not exceeding $2,000,000, a license of $500; for sales of $2,000,000, and not exceeding $3,000,000, $750; for sales of $3,000,000, and not exceeding $4,000,000, $1,000 and so on.

AN UNFOUNDED RUMOR.

Information has been received at the Indian Bureau that certain evil-disposed parties in Dacotah Territory are circulating reports to the effect that the Government has it in contemplation to remove the Sioux and Winnebago tribes of Indians (removed from Minnesota some time since,) from where they now are to a place further south on the Missouri River. As this is apt to cause some apprehension on the part of the settlers in that locality, the Department is anxious to have it known that no removal of the Indians there is contemplated.

DRAFT OFFICERS DELINQUENT.

Capt. JAMES E. DUNHAM, Provost-Marshal, and JASPER P. BARWICK, Commissioner, for the Fourth District of Connecticut, have been dismissed, and the Surgeon of the same Board of Enrollment, Dr. S. T. MORSELIS, in the First District of Pennsylvania, is to be arraigned on similar charges. This section provides that any Surgeon, charged with the duty of inspection, who shall receive from any person whatsoever any money, or other valuable thing, or agree, directly or indirectly, to receive the same to his own or another's use, for making an imperfect inspection or false report, or who shall willfully neglect to make a faithful inspection and true report, shall be tried by a Court-martial, and, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not exceeding $500, nor less than $200, and be imprisoned at the discretion of the Court, and besides be cashiered and dismissed from the service. DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON, Friday, Sept. 25.

REBEL PRISONERS.

To-day 119 prisoners, captured recently south of the Rapidan, reached here from the Army of the Potomac. Some were captured at Madison Court-house, but the larger number were taken at a point within seven miles of Gordonsville. Among them are Col. R. H. Lee, Inspector of the Second Army Corps of the Army of Northern Virginia; Capt. P. A. Taum, Second North Carolina cavalry; Lieut. J. B. Moore, one of Moseby's gang; Lieut. M. H. Norrman, Twenty-eighth North Carolina regiment; H. S. Bradley, Assistant-Surgeon of Cobb's Legion, and U. B. Shields, Assistant-Surgeon.

BOUNTY DECISION.

The Second Auditor of the Treasury has decided that an officer promoted from the ranks, who has not served as an enlisted man two years, is not entitled to the sum of $100 bounty, in accordance with existing acts of Congress. This decision was made in a case submitted by JOSEPH E. DAVIS & Co., of Philadelphia.

Amusements.

GERMAN OPERA.—The members of Mr. ANSCHUTZ'S company of German artists arrived here yesterday morning in the steamship Bavaria, after a long and tedious passage from Hamburg. They will make their first appearance at the Brooklyn Academy of Music on Thursday next—Mr. ANSCHUTZ having arranged a single performance at that establishment, in order that his artists may make a slight acquaintance with the public and the subscribers previous to their departure for Baltimore. It was found impossible to secure a house in New-York—hence the necessity of resorting to the sister city.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.—Mr. BANDMANN will play "Hamlet" for his benefit to-night.

Obituary.

DEATH OF HERMANN A. WOLLENHAUPT, THE PIANIST AND COMPOSER.—The sudden death of Mr. HERMANN A. WOLLENHAUPT has created a profound feeling of regret in the public mind, and a sentiment of sincere sorrow among a large circle of our citizens. Mr. WOLLENHAUPT was universally respected for his brilliant musical abilities, and beloved for the noble and generous qualities which adorned his character. These endeared him to all who knew him, but though his well merited successes may have caused some a jealous pang, it is probable that he had not one enemy in the world. HERMANN A. WOLLENHAUPT was born at Schkendits, Province of Saxony, Prussia, in 1827. His rare musical talents brought him early before the public, and he achieved signal successes wherever he appeared. In 1845 he came to New-York, where his piano performances at the Philharmonic, and other concerts, rapidly gained for him a brilliant teaching connection, so that in two years he was enabled to send for his parents and his brother and sisters. These he educated and maintained, devoting all his energies and means to their comfort and advancement. Observing great talent in his brother HAUSE, he sent him to Germany to study, keeping him there seven years, until he had achieved the position of a first-class artist. During the years of his residence in this City, HERMANN WOLLENHAUPT produced a large number of brilliant piano compositions, which have become famous, not only in this country, but throughout all Europe. They have become standard works, and have made his name respected wherever they are known. The art has lost much by his sudden and untimely death, and no one can calculate the deep grief that follows him to his grave from his home circle and his hosts of friends. His life was one of utter devotion and self-sacrifice, and he has surely met his reward, where deeds and not words are considered in a life's account. He was buried in Cypress Hills Cemetery, and his funeral was attended by every musician of eminence in the City. On the day of his funeral all the principal music-stores and piano-stores were closed as a mark of respect to his memory.

Major-Gen. George H. Thomas.

Major-Gen. GEORGE HENRY THOMAS, whose corps appears to have borne the brunt of the recent battles in Northwestern Georgia, was born in Southampton County, Va., July 31, 1816. He was graduated at West Point in 1840, and commissioned Brevet Second Lieutenant in the Third artillery, and joined his regiment in Florida. For his services in the Florida war he was breveted First Lieutenant in 1841, served at Fort Brown during its bombardment by the Mexicans, won the brevets of Captain at Monterey and Major at Buena Vista, and in 1849 was again sent to Florida, to serve against the Indians. From 1851 to 1854 he was Instructor of Artillery and Cavalry in the Military Academy. He was then ordered to California, where he commanded Fort Yuma until 1855, when he was promoted to be Major of the Second cavalry. From 1856 to 1860 he was on duty in Texas, commanding his regiment for the last three years of that time against the Indians and on exploring expeditions. In 1861 he was ordered to Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania, was promoted to be Colonel of the Fifth cavalry May 3, and ordered to report to Gen. PATTERSON.

He was then assigned to a brigade, and retained that command until Aug. 26, 1861, when he was appointed Brigadier-General of Volunteers and ordered to Kentucky. He commanded at the battle of Mill Spring, Jan. 19, 1862, when the rebels were completely defeated. His division was then ordered to Nashville, where it arrived on March 1, and, as soon as supplies could be obtained, marched to Pittsburgh Landing; but being in the reserve, did not arrive in time to take part in the battle of Shiloh. He was appointed Major-General of Volunteers April 25, 1862, and assigned to the command of the right wing of the army of the Tennessee, under Gen. HALLECK. The forces in the West being subsequently reorganized, he was transferred to the Department of the Ohio, (Gen. BUELL'S) and appointed commander in the field of all three corps embraced in that Department. On Sept. 30 he was ordered to supersede Gen. BUELL in the chief command, but on the remonstrance of himself and other officers that General was for the time reinstated. Gen. THOMAS enjoys the distinction of being the successor to the rebel Gen. LEE in the Regular army.

When ROBERT E. LEE was in the United States service he was Colonel of the Second cavalry, and Gen. THOMAS was Major in the same regiment. Both the Colonel and Lieutenant-Colonel resigning to enter the rebel service, Maj. THOMAS became Colonel of his regiment by regular promotion. Under the new arrangement in the army, by which the cavalry, dragoons, and mounted rifles are consolidated, the Second has now become the Fifth cavalry, of which Gen. THOMAS remains the Colonel, while he holds the additional rank of Major-General of Volunteers.

New Rooms for the Stock Exchange Board.

It is understood that the regular Board of Stock Brokers have purchased the old Government stores, Nos. 10 and 12 Broad-street, and design converting them to the purposes of the Association. The price is stated to have been $200,000. A privilege of twelve feet wide to and on Wall-street, for the main entrance, has also been secured. Should these be the facts, the Board will be able to have rooms ample and properly arranged for their purposes. That portion of the building not appropriated by them will doubtless be converted into offices.

The French People and Recognition.

Mr. GAILLARDET, formerly editor of the Courrier des Etats Unis, of this City, and now its correspondent in France, writes to that journal under date of Paris, Sept. 11:

"The recognition of the South is, we must admit, the logical consequence of our (Mexican) enterprise. It is, or rather should have been, its natural result, for our Government ought to have considered that, with the restoration of the Union, the establishment of a monarchy in Mexico would become very difficult, if not impossible. But in this event we ought to have acted consistently to the end by serving the cause of the South, when it could have been done efficaciously. Is it not too late now, that the Confederates have lost the Mississippi, Vicksburgh, Port Hudson and probably Charleston? Such is the language used by the partisans of the South themselves. The mass of the public are earnestly asking, moreover, have we an interest in Mexico great enough to take precedence over a war, or even a simple rupture with the American Union? I do not hesitate to declare that the question is answered in the negative by ninety-nine persons out of every hundred, and that such will be the tone of the new Legislative body, (Corps Legislatif,) which is to open on the 5th of November next, if before that time the country should not find itself irrevocably bound by the Government."

RUSSIAN OFFICERS ROBBED.—MICHAEL SENOFF, First Master of the Russian corvette Witeaz, and NICHOLAS BOUBAVENSKOFF, Second Master of the same vessel, appeared before Justice KELLY yesterday, and made complaint that they had been robbed at a disreputable house in Greene-street of twenty-nine pieces of Russian gold, worth $174 American money. Officer PALMER, of the Eighth Precinct, arrested three girls named KATE HAGAR, ELMIRA SINCLAIR and CLARA HALL, on the charge of having committed the robbery. Officer PALMER made a search of the room where the offence is said to have been committed, and found one of the gold pieces under a washstand. The prisoners were committed for examination.

OUR NAVAL VISITORS.

THE RUSSIAN FLEET IN THE HARBOR.

SKETCHES OF THE VESSELS, OFFICERS, ETC.

The presence of a Russian fleet in the harbor of New York is welcomed by all persons with the greatest pleasure. Five splendid men-of-war, fully manned and in perfect trim, are now riding at anchor in the North River, in full view of our noble harbor—the frigates Alexander Newsky, the Peresret, the Osliaba, and the corvettes Vitiaze and the Variag. They will soon be joined by the clippers Almos, Qoumroud and the Jahont. The Imperial flag of Russia—a piece of white quadrangular bunting, with broad diagonal bars of sky blue—floats from the fore-top of each vessel. The attention of gazers is also attracted by the band striking up occasionally a Russian air, which sounds very melodious to an American ear. At present the newly-arrived vessels present a busy scene, in preparing for the reception of their American friends.

THE FLAGSHIP ALEXANDER NEWSKY.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning, the flagship Alexander Newsky and the frigate Peresret steamed around the Battery from the East River, and headed up the North River; at 9¾ they had cast anchor opposite Pier No. 8, in the middle of the stream, near the other vessels of the fleet. She is the flagship of the distinguished Rear-Admiral LESSOFSKI. She is a first-class 50-gun frigate, 4,000 tons burden, and 800 horse-power. She is named after ALEXANDER NEWSKY, a celebrated Russian Prince of the year 1212. She is a new vessel, built in 1862, and resembles the Grand Admiral, which was built in this City. The rigging and sparring of the Newsky are similar to vessels of the same class in our own navy. She is well built, and very strong, and carries fifty 8-inch smooth-bore Dahlgren guns. All the guns in the Russian fleet are of the same size. Her dimensions are as follows: Length, 300 feet; width, 51 feet, and depth of hold, 25 feet. Her crew consists of sixteen officers, twenty midshipmen, and 700 seamen. They have no regular marines, but the sailors perform the duty of marines. Like the Oslıaba, this frigate is splendidly finished and furnished. The ward-rooms are on the main deck in the aft, as is also the Admiral's cabin; they are tastefully decorated like a drawing-room. Everything about the vessel is kept clean and neat, as are the gallant tars. The officers and midshipmen dress in dark blue, wearing wide-top caps, slouching forward, surrounded with a broad gold band. They wear a small dagger about 18 inches long at their side. The sailors dress in white pants and light blue shirts. The officers are total strangers to America; but they are well acquainted with the political questions at issue, and the struggle going on between the North and South; they declare they would like to see the Union restored. The following is a list of the principal officers: Rear-Admiral, LESSOFSKI; Post-Captain, Fedofiofski; Commander, Pilkin; Flag-Lieutenant, Semetshkin; Lieuts. Nicolef, Koscool, Moiselif, Novopilski, Polozof, Sokolof, Vichnialof; Second-Lieut. Sasonof; First Master, Drakof; Second Master, Petrof; First Engineer, Gansman; Second Engineer, Sargrief; Surgeon, Hohnlskaff; Asst.-Surgeon, Safkieviez.

NAVAL ETIQUETTE.

At 12 o'clock exactly, while our reporter was on board the flagship Alexander Newsky, the naval steam-tug Vanderbilt was seen approaching with Admiral PAULDING'S barge in tow. On arriving at the stern of the frigate, the Vanderbilt dropped the barge, which, with twelve oarsmen, pulled alongside. In the barge was Lieut.-Commander FILLEBROWNE, the Executive Officer of the Brooklyn Navy-yard, who boarded the vessel, and was immediately recognized by the majority of the officers as an old friend, having cruised with them during the Crimean war in the waters of the North of Europe. On being presented to the Admiral, Mr. FILLEBROWNE was astonished to find another old friend, who was lately the Russian agent in this City, studying the progress of our iron-clads. He was recognized by our reporter as the same who, on the trial trip of the Montauk, evinced a thorough knowledge of naval artillery. After the usual friendly salutations were exchanged, Mr. FILLEBROWN told the Admiral that he was sent down by Admiral PAULDING to give him a hearty and cordial welcome to the Port of New-York; that the facilities of the navy-yard for any repairs his vessels might need, or for other purposes, were at his disposal; that he and his officers were invited to visit the yard and see all interesting objects which the naval authorities here could show. The Russian Admiral replied very warmly to the message of the Admiral, sent his compliments, and hoped to be able to see him in a few days. Mr. FILLEBROWNE then left, after which the American flag was sent to the fore-top of the frigate, and the salute for Admiral PAULDING was fired. This was returned, in a few moments after, from the cob dock of the Navy-yard, by orders of Capt. RICHARD W. MEADE, Commander of the North Carolina.

The peculiarities of naval etiquette are not generally understood. If a foreign vessel arrives where an American vessel is at anchor, a boat from the American flag-ship is sent on board the foreigner to welcome her; the foreigner then fires a salute for the Admiral, which is returned by the flag-ship. The first visit is always paid by the foreigner, the American Admiral returning it; for instance, the Admiral of the Russian frigate will visit Admiral PAULDING in two or three days, when a salute will be fired; then Admiral PAULDING will visit him, when the same thing will occur. Unlike all other nations, we have no flag-ship in the commercial part of our harbor, which renders it incumbent upon foreign officers to travel nearly a mile to reach the seat of naval authority.

THE FRIGATE OSLIABA

Created a great furore on the occasion of the visit of Mrs. President LINCOLN a week ago. She will be ready to receive visitors in the early part of next week.

THE OTHER VESSELS.

The Peresret is a steam-frigate, somewhat smaller than the flagship. She is commanded by Capt. KOPTTOFF. She mounts forty-six 64-pounders. The Variag was built in Finland; is 342 feet long, 40 feet wide, and 23 feet depth of hold. She is 1,030 tons burden, and 360 horse power. She mounts seventeen 60-pounders, and has 309 men. The following is a list of her officers: Captain, LUND; Lieutenants, Shaffroff, Bolgowsky, Wernoff, Fessum, Tartarinoff, Grinwald, Burr; Master, Semenoff; Engineers, Kinito and Kuznisroff. The Vitiaze was also built in Finland; is a fine model and fast sailer. She is of the same dimensions as the Variag, and mounts seventeen 60-pounders. She has 215 men. Her officers are: Captain, CREMMER; Lieutenants, Caltovsky, Cashenzeff, Jakobson, Unkovsky, Bouligin. Teperessassaff and Vilken. Besides these, there are a number of cadets.

The clipper Almos, Capt. SELENOY, nine guns and 360 horse-power; clipper Isoumrond, nine guns and 360 horse-power; clipper Jahant, nine guns and 360 horse-power, are hourly expected.

THE SECRETARY OF THE NAVY TO MR. STOECKL.

A navy officer, of the Brooklyn Navy-yard, kindly showed us a copy of a telegraphic dispatch from Washington, received from a friend, stating that the Secretary of the Navy has addressed a complimentary letter to Mr. STOECKL, the Russian Minister Extraordinary at Washington. The Secretary states that he is "gratified to learn that a squadron of Russian war vessels has arrived at New-York for the purpose, it is supposed, of visiting that City." He desires to have his compliments, and the good wishes and friendly feelings of the Government conveyed to the Admiral, and also the assurance that the services of the Brooklyn Navy-yard are at his disposal, if he wants them. The Secretary feels no diffidence in paying that Admiral PAULDING will make a visit to the Navy-yard, worthy the trouble of getting there.

It is a gratifying testimony to the merit of our naval artillerists to find on board these Russian vessels the celebrated Dahlgren guns. Those generally used, such as those on the flagship, for instance, are the smooth-bore 68-pounders, which were placed on the main deck of our frigates for years; 8-inch guns are also used on the spar deck as broadside and pivot guns, the larger calibre ordnance not having been adopted yet by foreign nations. The brass howitzers used so frequently in our boats and small vessels are also on board the Russian vessels.

THE RUSSIAN NAVY

has been for some time past in process of reconstruction, rendered necessary by the strides of naval progress which are so rapid and so different from a few years ago. The Russian naval forces in the Baltic, Amoor River, White, Caspian and Black Seas and Lake Ural, is 122 vessels—nine being ships-of-the-line and thirteen frigates. They mount 2,246 guns, and are manned by 355 officers, 853 sub officers, and 20,485 seamen. The personnel of the Russian navy includes 16 Admirals, 30 Vice-Admirals, 39 Rear-Admirals, 111 first-class Captains, 95 second-class Captains, 257 Lieutenants and 396 Midshipmen. The marine artillery comprises about 300 officers. Beside this complement, the Czar has a special naval staff. His naval force is considered one of the best regulated in the world.

THE MOVEMENTS OF THE RUSSIAN FLEET

for the future are unknown. The general opinion is, that they will remain here three or four weeks, as the officers applied to Admiral PAULDING for some charts of the Atlantic harbors, and it is probable that they contemplate visiting our seaboard cities.

The arrival of so large reinforcements to the Oslıaba will necessitate a change in the programme which had been laid down by the City authorities for the entertainment of her officers. It has been suggested that the contemplated banquet at the Metropolitan Hotel be changed to a ball at the Academy of Music. The latter would afford a larger number of our citizens an opportunity to pay their respects to the Russian visitors, and would have the additional advantage of including ladies in the entertainment. Very few of the officers of the fleet have ever visited the United States before. Judging from their conversation they entertain the highest appreciation of us as a people, and are imbued with the most friendly feelings toward Americans. An entertainment which would afford them an opportunity of seeing something of our social life and customs, and of becoming acquainted with ladies as well as gentlemen, would doubtless be most acceptable to them. They are nearly all more or less acquainted with the English language, and many of them speak English fluently.

They are always happy to receive visitors on board their vessels, and during their stay in port our citizens, both ladies and gentlemen, cannot spend an hour more agreeably than by a visit to them.

HARLEM, July 30, 1863.

I have been deaf for over TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and Dr. VON EISENBERG operated on both of my ears without the slightest pain—a thing that I could not believe could be done, I now hear well, and feel as I never felt for the last twenty years. The dexterity and skill with which the operation was performed evince the highest practical ability. I hear perfectly. It is now over a month since the operation, and I continue to feel as well as ever.

CATARRH CURED.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 23, 1863.

I have been suffering for the last three years from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery and very painful. My nostrils were continually obstructed with a pouring of fluid. I have had frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, generally attended with spitting, often with a fullness of my throat, together with a soreness and a dropping. Dr. VON EISENBERG has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. I now feel a new life. The treatment of Dr. VON EISENBERG is as skillful as it is successful; it is impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one suffering like myself to place themselves under Dr. VON EISENBERG'S care, with a certainty of being speedily cured. I give this with gratitude and pleasure. I cannot forbear again saying that my voice, which was hoarse and thick when I applied to Dr. VON EISENBERG, is now clear and good; indeed, I feel abundantly satisfied.

JAMES LITTLE,
No. 245 7th-st., New-York.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 8.

I have been suffering for years past from a severe Catarrh, with a great heaviness over my eyes, with a severe depression, great uneasiness, and pain in my head, great difficulty in breathing, and a continual accumulation in my nostrils, which gave me restless nights for several years. I have consulted several physicians, who pronounced me to be consumptive. What I suffered for so long a time is indescribable. My system was entirely disarranged and greatly debilitated. I not only felt weak, but I had a cloud continually before my eyes, and my ears were so affected that I was threatened with a total loss of hearing. I must say, I think, I was guided by Providence to come to Dr Von Eisenberg, who not only cured me of my Catarrh by removing an astonishing quantity of disagreeable matter from my head, but he restored me to perfect health, a blessing I have not enjoyed for many years. Now I enjoy a good night's rest, and pursue my business with comfort. I must acknowledge that Dr. Von Eisenberg's mild and scientific treatment for Catarrh deserves the highest commendation, as the principle which directs his system of curing Catarrh is such as to render success certain.

JAMES FURLONG, No. 856 2d-av.

No. 134 ALLEN-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.

JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CARROLL J. POST, No. 28 South-st.

SIGHT RESTORED.

JUNE 25, 1863.

My daughter brought me to Dr. VON EISENBERG almost completely blind in both eyes. I could not bear the pain nor the light. I am completely cured by Dr. VON EISENBERG, and called now to express my gratitude to the Doctor for his skill and unremitting attention, by which I recovered one of the most precious senses to me after being deprived of it for four years. It is only due to Dr. VON EISENBERG to state that I have tried several physicians in vain. I shall be happy to bear personal testimony to Dr. VON EISENBERG'S unrivaled success to any lady or gentleman who will call on me.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.

READ.

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

DR. WISTAR'S
BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.

This well-known preparation has effected so many WONDERFUL CURES,
and restored so many sufferers to health, that it is cherished by all who have experienced its virtues, as
THE INFALLIBLE REMEDY
FOR THE INSTANT RELIEF AND CERTAIN CURE
THE THROAT, LUNGS AND CHEST.

Discovered by a distinguished physician. Containing no mineral or deleterious ingredient, but everything agreeable, it has, by the wonderful cures it has effected, been constantly appreciating in public favor, and is now firmly established as the GREAT AMERICAN REMEDY
for every form, however severe, of PULMONARY COMPLAINT, not excepting even that most fatal of all diseases,
CONSUMPTION.

FROM JESSE SMITH, ESQ., PRESIDENT OF THE MORRIS COUNTY BANK, MORRISTOWN, N. J.
"Having used Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY for about fifteen years, and having realized its beneficial results in my family, it affords me great pleasure in recommending it to the public as a valuable remedy in cases of weak lungs, colds, coughs, &c., and a remedy which I consider to be entirely innocent, and may be taken with perfect safety by the most delicate in health."

FROM MISS ANN E. HULBERT, DEER RIVER, N.Y.
"Although averse to this kind of notoriety, I owe it to truth to say that I have received very great benefit from the use of Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, at a time when my recovery from a very severe cough and illness was extremely doubtful. As I am confident that it was instrumental in my restoration, and possibly in saving my life, I heartily recommend it to others who require a cough medicine."

FROM J. H. JACKSON, ESQ., OF CROTON, N. Y.
"About six years since my wife was attacked with a difficulty of the lungs and stomach, spitting of blood, &c., accompanied by great soreness, and was thought by all to be in a dangerous condition. She was under the care of a skillful physician for more than a year, and afterward tried many of the most popular cough remedies, but she received no permanent relief until WISTAR'S BALSAM was used, a few bottles of which restored her to her usual health. I would add that this BALSAM has been used by other members of my family, and I can truly say that I know of no other cough remedy in which I have so much confidence. I would recommend WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY to all in need of a safe and reliable cure for coughs, colds or any other diseases of the throat and lungs."

FROM SIMEON MARQUART, ESQ., OF OWEGO, N.Y.
"Some years since I was attacked with a severe and distressing cough, the long continuance of which much alarmed me. From what I had heard of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, I concluded to give that preparation a trial, which I did, and by its use obtained immediate and permanent relief. Again, about five years ago, I was taken with a severe hacking cough, accompanied with pain in the chest and side, tickling in the throat, etc., which so reduced my health and strength as to unfit me for attending to my ordinary business. I applied to well-known physicians and used their prescriptions without any perceptible benefit; when, after having been confined to my room for several months, I again had recourse to WISTAR'S BALSAM, and, to my great joy, found, as before, immediate relief, and two bottles restored me to perfect health."

"The collecting of Postage Stamps has become a matter of such general interest that it is believed the publication of an Album, affording facilities for their arrangement and preservation, in a convenient and elegant form, will be warmly welcomed by the community. It has been sought in the volume here offered to the public to combine instruction with amusement, and to render the collection valuable in itself, doubly valuable as the nucleus of a large amount of important geographical and statistical information.

In pursuance of this design we have arranged the different countries separately, and given under each its area, population, capital and form of government, the name of its ruler, together with the date of his birth and succession; its several coins, and their value in sterling and in Federal money. Ample space has been left for all the varieties of postage-stamps; not only these, but also for revenue, local and non-official stamps, which are often of a very interesting character."—Extract from Preface.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 18, 1863.

This Company will hold their eighth regular monthly auction, on TUESDAY, the 29th day of September, 1863, at 12 o'clock noon, at the rooms now used as the Merchants' Exchange, Nos. 26 and 28 Exchange-place, corner of William-st., at which time they will offer, by SIMEON DRAPER, Auctioneer,
TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND TONS OF FRESH MINED SCRANTON COAL, embracing all the usual sizes, and deliverable at their depot, Elizabethport, N. J., after the 1st of October next. They will repeat such auction sales on or about the 20th of each month, during the year 1863.
The sale will be positive. Each lot put up will be sold to the highest bidder; no bids, in any form whatever, being made for account of, or on behalf of the Company.
Fifty cents per ton, in bankable funds, to be paid at the time and place of sale, and the balance, in like funds, on receiving the order for the coal, which must be called for within ten days thereafter, and the coal taken away within thirty days from the day of sale, unless navigation is obstructed. Buyers who wish, however, can have an additional thirty days for taking the delivery of their purchases, by making a further deposit of fifty cents per ton, within the ten days above specified. Interest, at 7 per cent. per annum, will in such case be charged on the balance, from the time stipulated for payment until paid; and twenty-five cents per ton to cover the expense of stocking the coal—both to be paid on delivery of order.
The other conditions of sale will be substantially those hitherto accepted by all purchasers, by private contract, of coal deliverable at Elizabethport, so far as applicable. The coal will be delivered direct from the cars on their arrival from the mines, when practicable—otherwise from the stock. These conditions will be modified to meet the wants of ocean steamers, whose arrival cannot be definitely fixed.

That is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. Its value in this respect has become so well known, that scientific men in every department of medical knowledge begin to appreciate it, for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians in regard to some pitiful patient who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. Its popularity is so great that there is not a quack doctor in the City that has not attacked it, and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then pretend that they can make it. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for 15 three-cent stamps, 800 pages, 100 colored illustrations. The best work out.

NEWS FROM BERMUDA.

Jollification of Secessionists at Hamilton—The Packet Line to Wilmington, N. C.—Sinking of the Sumter in Charleston Harbor.

By the brig Lizzie Barnard, which arrived yesterday from Bermuda, we have files of papers to the 18th inst.

The rebel steamer Ella and Annie, Capt. BONNEAU, arrived at Hamilton on the 7th inst., from Wilmington. She measures 795 tons, is 258 feet in length and 34 feet beam, the size of her cylinder is 50 inches and the stroke of piston 12 feet. She has a walking-beam. The Ella and Annie was built in the United States, and before the commencement of the American difficulties, was engaged as a packet vessel between New-York and New-Orleans.

This steamer is the first of the rebel blockade-running fleet that has entered the port of Hamilton—the other vessels having made a rendezvous of St. George's, where the harbor is more easily accessible. To signalize, then, the advent of the Ella and Annie, which promises to the jealous merchants of Hamilton some share in the immense profits which their more fortunate rivals at St. George's are said to be reaping from the brisk traffic of the blockade-runners, a dinner was given by the secession sympathizers of the former town to the Captain of the trader. This jubilant and disinterested affair is stated by the editor of the Gazette to have been "gotten up in capital style, and the evening passed off most happily. Several appropriate toasts were drank, and some excellent speeches made." We are also told by the same paper that "the E. and A. has had very many visitors since her arrival in Hamilton, all of whom have been most kindly received by the Captain and his officers. The new pretty Confederate flag is displayed by the E. and A."

A steamer, (rebel,) supposed to be the Phantom, from Wilmington, N. C., was signaled off Bermuda on the evening of the 14th.

The following is a list of rebel vessels keeping up communication between Wilmington and other Confederate ports and Bermuda:

Robert E. Lee, A. D. Vance, Eugenie, Phantom, Gladiator, Hansa, Harriet Pinckney, Nashville, Adela, (captured,) Ouachuta, (captured,) Herald, (captured,) Emma, (captured,) Gibraltar, (sunk in Charleston Harbor.) Beauregard, Lady Davis, Banshee, Venus, Marian, (captured,) Ella and Annie, Phœbe, Miriam, Landona, (captured,) Minnie.

A week or two since we published a statement from our Charleston correspondent, that a steamer, in attempting to leave Charleston harbor, had been fired on from Fort Moultrie and sunk. Of this affair the Gazette furnishes an explanation. The steamer was fired upon on the supposition that she was a National man-of-war. There were 630 persons on board, of whom all but twenty were saved.

CERTIFICATE.

This is to certify that about six months ago, I commenced using STERLING'S AMBROSIA. My hair was short, thin, and rapidly falling off. I had tried many Hair Tonics, Invigorators, &c., without receiving any benefit. Soon after using the Ambrosia, my hair ceased falling out, and commenced growing so rapidly as to astonish me. Now my hair is thick, soft and glossy, and is five feet and four inches in length—when let down reaching to the floor. This wonderful result I attribute solely to the use of STERLING'S AMBROSIA, as since I have commenced using it I have applied nothing else to my hair.
